Hi Panah, sorry this is being sent a little later than I had hoped today,

I am waiting to hear back and discuss with Amador Air District about your concerns for their plan and public notice. In the meantime, please find the Amador district's final version attached. I know the district didn't address all EPA/CARB comments but we felt they addressed the major issues in the original draft and strengthened it reasonably well.

Hi Jin,

Thanks again for the call on Tuesday. We've attached comments on the SLOAPCD and AAD draft plans. In general, the comments are the same as what we discussed. One thing I forgot to mention about SLOAPCD's plan is that 52.152(b)(2) has a requirement about inspection of sources. That is not currently in SLOAPCD's draft plan.

For Amador, our comments mostly reflect what we discussed- specifying what different types of sources would do in an emergency. I know they planned to publish the plan this Saturday, but we strongly urge the county to provide additional information before going out to public comment. As we discussed on the phone, individual sources don't necessarily need to make their own abatement plans in order for the district to include specific actions in the emergency episode plan.

Feel free to give me a call if you want to discuss any of this further. Thanks again for your time on this.

Thanks a lot!
Panah

Hi Panah,

Here is a draft emergency episode plan we just received from Amador Air District. They plan to publish it for public comments on 7/20 (this Saturday) and take to their Board for approval on 8/20. So, we do not really have much time to review it, but please let us know by this Thursday if you have any quick comments. We will try to consolidate all the comments if any, and send to them by Friday morning.

Thanks,
Jin

Hello Matt,

Please see the draft EEP. This will be published for public comment on 7/20/19 and our Board meeting for approval will be 8/20/19. Please let me know if you have any input.

Thanks, Jim

Good morning Jim,

I hope your ozone Emergency Episode Plan is progressing well. We are wondering if you would like us (CARB) to do an unofficial review of your draft plan before it reaches public comment. Additionally, EPA has also offered to review district drafts as well, if you would like. Though we are unsure what their timeline might be to comment on draft plans, their staff seems quite eager to look through any district drafts that are offered. Ultimately, we both would be happy to provide assistance to help guide the plan to be approvable by EPA.

Happy early Fourth of July,

Matthew Densberger
